CAFETERIA IS BIG NEED AT SCHOOL

Equipment Necessary to Provide Several Hundred With Eating Place.

The need of a cafeteria at least tables and chairs—at the new high school is brought out each noon in a revealing sight when between 300 and 400 children rush and crowd hoping to be among the first to the basement in order to have a chair to sit on, a table to put their food on. And there must always be those who are disappointed.

Many students, mostly those from the country, have always brought their lunch and the dining room at the old high school—really in the attic—was crowded each noon with more than a hundred. At times it was possible to serve something hot to drink and some one dish such as beans, in addition to the desert each noon. This, added to the savings and fruit brought by the pupils, made a good lunch.

But now at the new high school there is a serious problem until the equipment for the cafeteria is installed. The money has been appropriated. Until Friday noon, pupils would hurry to the cafeteria room, now absolutely bare with the exception of what improvised tables and folding chairs could be obtained and finding that room filled would again rush up-stairs and consider themselves fortunate if they found room on the seats on each stair-way landing. Rooms could not be used and it was out of the question to use the auditorium, and Friday the ruling was issued that pupils could use no room but the cafeteria.

On Friday noon saw hungry children even standing up if necessary, to eat. Others without chairs found an empty corner and sat on the floor.

But there were few objections for even those who are forced to take their lunch because of the additional distance to travel and the shortened noon-hour are so proud of the building that they could find little to bother them—not even the persistent odor of fresh paint with which the cafeteria walls are now being tinted a light buff.

50 H. P.—Amazing Performance—$995!

Jewett's six cylinders are 3 3/4 by 5 inches. They give you full fifty horsepower. No automobile of comparable size and price was ever built with such power!

Consider the amazing performance of this fine motor in the 2805-pound Jewett. Acceleration from 5 to 25 miles in seven seconds. You can take traffic in high gear at two miles an hour, or the straight-ahead stretch at sixty. Beat any car climbing hills.

It's the wonderful Paige-built motor that does these things—a motor finely built and ideally lubricated. High-pressure oiling sends a gallon of oil every 46 seconds to all main and connecting rod bearings at 15 miles per hour. All moving parts are remarkably smooth, noticeably silent. The new-type, all-steel, oil-tight universal joints—oiled, not greased—have sealed-in lubrication good for 15,000 miles.

Jewett gives fast shifting of gears with a bare 3-inch movement. Thanks to a new clutch, shift as fast as your hand can move. No pause, no clash. Drop from high to second at 30 miles per hour; that's Jewett gear-mastery. Ball-bearing spindles, an exclusive Jewett betterment, give superior steering ease.

Every inch of it is ruggedly built, and Jewett's 200 pounds greater weight gives big-car riding ease. Genuine leather upholstery. Built-in transmission lock. Drum-type headlamps. Snug curtains; abundant riding room.

See for yourself this high-power, Paige-built Jewett Six, at $995. In all the world there never was such a car at such a price!

The biggest attraction is said to be

"Oh, Daddy, Oh," which will play on Monday and Tuesday. This musical comedy, often has been held over for more showing than were looked. Other plays, all musical comedies, are

"The Time, the Place, and the Girl"

for Wednesday and Thursday, "Little Miss Mix-Up" for Friday and Saturday, and a new attraction, as yet unannounced, for Sunday.

Featured in this company are Billy

Maone, often called King of comedians,

Stella Hammer, noteworthy for her singing ability, Chue Hoback, acrobatic dancer, and other comedians, dancers and singers.

It has been some time since a musical comedy company has played more than one night here, and the "Rag-received.

AT THE MYERS.

What is a girl's fondest hope? Will high think the answer is the desire to be talked about? The famous director of "Schindlers" and other screen successes, has now completed an elaborate eight-reel photodrama with the suggestive title "Notoriety."

The picture is based on actual events of the day, and is the story of a critical moment in the life of a young girl.

The heroine is Maurice Powers, who plays the part of "Pigeon" Deering, a poor tenement girl, who yearns to taste the delights of fame and popularity. Sensational stories of celebrities that she reads in newspapers and magazines give her an appetite for

notoriety, till the craze to shine over-

whelms her. At last her moment

comes, when she is innocently connecting with a society crime. Brought

before the court, "Pigeon" experiences

the happiest moment of her life when

photographers and reporters crowd

about her. She is intoxicated with delight when her name and face appear

in the papers. "Pigeon" would have

actually gone to prison for life for a

crime she never committed, just for the sake of the notoriety, if the real

criminal hadn't been discovered.

Will Nigh has added an excellent cast to this stirring photodrama.

Maurice Powers, Mary Alden, Rod La

Roque, George Hackathorne, Richard

Travers and J. Barney Sherry are only some of the stars of "Notoriety."

"Missing Millions" is another Boston Blackie story and has the same appeal as all stories of this famous international crook. "Pigeon" Dean played in a Boston Blackie picture once and the latest one was "The Face in the Fog" in which Lionel

Barrymore had the crook part. Now

David Powell has that part in an entirely different story, taken from "A Problem in Grand Larceny," by Jack

Boyle, creator of the character. The story is a mystery and is said to be well worked up. Alice Brady has the chief supporting part. Vaudeville

magazines give her an appetite for

notoriety, till the craze to shine over-

whelms her. At last her moment

comes, when she is innocently connecting with a society crime. Brought

before the court, "Pigeon" experiences

the happiest moment of her life when

photographers and reporters crowd

about her. She is intoxicated with de-

light when her name and face appear

in the papers. "Pigeon" would have

actually gone to prison for life for a

crime she never committed, just for

the sake of the notoriety, if the real

criminal hadn't been discovered.

A DEFEAT FOR CONSTITUTION TINKERING.

The state senate saved the tax payers a great many dollars Friday by defeating the resolution calling for a constitutional convention.
It may be that the constitution is not a perfect document. It was however, made by men who were wise beyond their time and they read into the state's foundation document those principles of justice and economy which have always been a part of the life of Wisconsin. There is room enough—too much it would seem at times—to add to and change the constitution without subjecting the basic law of the state to an expensive revision or to expose it to the danger of all the fads in government which come into being for a time, then fade away, their place being taken by other fancies and follies.
Just now we have a few persons who want a national convention called for the revision of the United States constitution. These faddists are bound to change this nation from the republican form of representative government to the rule of the mob in one manner or another. Let us not overlook the fact that the United States is being now and has been for four years subjected to the cleverest and most insidious kind of propaganda for the establishment of the Soviet form here and that unwittingly perhaps men high in authority have played the game. No one realizes that more clearly than Samuel Gompers who has repeatedly warned against it. One of the ways of breaking down the barriers of constitutional government is to tinker with the constitution itself, by holding as many conventions as possible; and we find in a large number of states that there has been greater agitation for that action this year than ever before.
Wisconsin has taken a wise step in scotching this snake at the very beginning.

This here, now, man, Babbitt, who is to be promoted to be a major general is no relation to the man in the book, is he?

THE NICARAGUA CANAL ON

With a recommendation that the United States get busy with the proposal for another canal across the isthmus of southern end of the North American continent, President Harding has awakened an interest dormant for a quarter of a century. The commission appointed more than that many years ago reported, under Admiral Walker, that the Nicaragua canal survey was the most feasible and offered the best route with the least cost to the government. The total estimate was then $190,000,000. A large part of the way was over the San Juan river and through Lake Nicaragua. Its advantage at the time was in the healthfulness of the route as against the Panama which had been a graveyard to De Les-pans and his French engineers. It may be that we need another transisthmian canal but we need something else more than that and right now—the St. Lawrence to the Ocean route, opened and ready for use.
There never has been a project with so vast possibilities as the St. Lawrence waterway. It means more to the agriculture and industry of the west and northwest than a half dozen Nicaragua canals. It would release 550 millions worth of railroad property for other carrying uses—coal and local freight. It would mean a saving of 54 million tons of coal a year in the power generated. It would save the power bills of the two nations, the United States and Canada, $30 million dollars, by generating 5,400,000 hydro electric horse power—more than all the rivers and waterfalls in Europe combined.
This would constitute the most stupendous engineering feat ever proposed. And the canal is given the support of the best engineers, has in addition, the opening up of a great possibility in moving the freight and farm products of the northwest and would bring the sea to the very doors of the states in the middle west.
Nicaragua canal possibilities are of course not to be overlooked but in this generation we want something tangible as a direct benefit to those who have made the west the seat of national wealth and greatness. We can struggle along for many years without the canal across the Nicaraguan peninsula—we are in dire need of the waterway from the Great Lakes to the ocean.

It depends somewhat on the place where the money is to be spent as to whether an appropriation for a public benefit is "pork" or not. We have always heard, perhaps always will, hear much about "pork" as applied to public buildings

Historic Blanford Churchyard

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN Petersburg, Va.—When a stranger in Petersburg meets an old inhabitant he is sure to be asked eagerly, "Have you seen Blanford?" As a result of this spontaneous press agent work on the part of Petersburg citizens, few visitors leave town without seeing Blanford, and the fame of old Blanford church and its historic graveyard steadily increases.
Five minutes ride from the center of town you come upon a little colonial style chapel, overgrown with English ivy. The church is freshly painted, and 17 fine stained glass windows make it a shrine for art-lovers as well as students of the past. About the little church is a neatly kept lawn dotted with old and crumbling tombstones.
This is Blanford. It is a bit of colonial Virginia.
Legends on the stones tell of men and women born in England, Scotland, and Ireland who came to Virginia before the Revolutionary war.
Blanford was once the most important and fashionable section of Petersburg. Do its church in pre-revolutionary days Virginians of wealth and culture gathered on Sundays for worship.
The high old pulpit, like a watch tower, still stands in the church. You can imagine the silk and satin clad colonials sitting in three wings of the cross shaped chapel and the rector bending from his carved balcony to counsel his parishioners regarding their duty in those troublesome times.
The chapel was abandoned as old in 1900, when the National Capital was just being established at Washington. But the history of Blanford was not complete. The dead of three more wars were to be added to the revolutionary heroes in the churchyard, and one of the hottest battles of the Civil War was to be fought close enough to the church to damage its walls and break the old gravestones. After that siege, 25,000 Confederate dead were laid to rest in Blanford cemetery, and the chapel was left to the ravages of the war with ivy growing over its broken walls.
About 20 years ago the chapel was carefully restored and painted and its vines trimmed.
Eleven stained glass windows were presented by the Southern States. Blanford became formally a memorial chapel to the Confederate dead.
Petersburg calls Blanford unique, and it has facts to back the claim. For one thing, one corner of the churchyard holds the body of the only British officer ever buried abroad before the recent World war.
England, it seems, had always the policy of bringing all her officers home for burial. But during the Revolution, General William Phillips was taken ill with fever while Petersburg was a center of fighting. Cannon balls were falling around Bollingbrook-Mansion where the general lay, and he was removed to the basement for safety. The old colored cook, Molly, was accidentally killed by a ball as she stood in the dop-paw with the general's dinner in her hands.
Phillips died and was buried at Blanford. But because local sentiment was so strong against him, it is said that old Molly was buried over his grave, so that his body might not be found and desecrated.
When steps were taken to remove the general to England the body could not be located. The whereabouts of General Phillips became one of the mysteries of the day—a persistent mystery.
The British had to abandon the quest.
Shortly before the recent war, however, the British government was reminded of the strange fact, that an English general lay under American soil, and another request for the missing officer was sent. But Phillips, called by Jefferson the proudest man of the proudest nation on earth, lay in an unmarked and forgotten grave. A fire in 1843 had destroyed the oldest records of the churchyard, and the story of old Molly was vague tradition. It was finally agreed that the general must remain in Blanford, and the D. A. R. put up a stone to his memory, close by the church.
The devotion of two children for one another, the tragedy of an unrequited love, affairs of honor fought to the death, and the early signs of American democracy can be read in the old stones of Blanford.

The tragic lover of the churchyard was a Corsican named Antonio, who in 1814 made himself famous in the history of Petersburg by shooting himself in the Blanford chapel. He was buried outside the churchyard wall in accordance with the custom forbidding a suicide to lie in consecrated ground. His story became known back in Corsica. It appealed to friends in that land of violent love affairs, and money was raised for a heidstone. The inscription is practically unreadable now. It said: "Honor was his only vice."
Two duels were fought in the churchyard. Apparently being killed by some one else for love or honor was not regarded with the same moral aversion of killing oneself, for several duellists lie buried near the church.
The aristocratic colonials of Blanford lie beneath tables of stone with their coats of arms and their virtues chiseled into the slabs. Even here, however, the approach of American democracy is seen. Some of the small stones of the plain citizens are marked proudly with the fact that the deceased was a grocer or a merchant.
These stones are stories of historic, but Blanford is chiefly remembered as a war cemetery. It is a quiet place, yet on every hand are associations of fighting, and bloodshed. Old stones are chipped by shells. Fighters of four American wars lie under stones carved with the weapons of their victories. On a hillside of the cemetery is a monument to the unknown Confederate dead, surrounded by markers to group those who fell according to states.
The McRae stone called the most warlike monument in America, is in this cemetery. This shaft was erected to the Petersburg men who went to Canada to fight in the war of 1812. A bronze war eagle surmounts the stone, and on one side is carved the order of the War Department in 1813 praising the little band of volunteers and regretting that their term of enlistment was over.
The order states that they "have for 12 months borne hardships and privations of military life in the most of an inhospitable wilderness with a cheerfulness and alacrity which have never been surpassed." The enclosure about the monument is decorated with sabres, flint lock muskets, ammunition boxes, laurel wreaths, battle axes and the American shield.
Blanford is connected with the recent war in a new way. Petersburg has planted trees in a memorial avenue stretching toward Blanford and at the foot of every other tree is a bronze marker to a Petersburg boy who fought and fell in the World war.

and river and harbor appropriations. Janesville needs additional facilities for handling mails. The quarters are altogether too small. Mail cannot be carried for efficiently as things are now. We need more room. But congress will not appropriate money for this purpose fearful perhaps of the cry of "pork."
Kewasha reports an increased power of scent of the police of that city since city management took reins of government. It isn't half so hard to locate a still as it used to be and a policeman can detect a nootch breath three blocks away.
It is well to have the cooperation of all citizens with the Janesville police department. Give the police aid and assistance and that will help regulate some of the things of which complaint is made.
The alibi of the revolver against the effort to banish it is that it is a domestic utensil.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.
THE MEANING OF SUCCESS.
A little more to do with.
A little more to do.
An old, hard duty through with,
Then rise to meet the new.
Success is not in resting Beneath a summer sky,
But always re-investing The joys the gods give.
To him who proves his mettle Come tasks for melior's brawn,
And he must keep in fettle From whom shall much be drawn.
Soon dies the rust of glory, Swift fades the idle fame,
He briefly tells his story
Who feeds upon a name.
From life there's no retiring Till Age hath spoke the word, Always the sound of firing
From the battle fields is heard.
Who can do, must be doing, Who holds the gift, must give,
Some larger goal pursuing,
Or he has ceased to live.

DR. COUE.
I do not know "Dr. Coue."
But I have read through his book.
It's plain to me the methods that he Sets forth have a sensible look.
Brain is a sensitive issue, the next pres-Mind is quite easily swayed.
It can be turned, we've already learned,
By every emotion that's played.
Mine is susceptible, very right.
Others can sway my mind any way
And make me believe black is white.
Outsiders easily swing me,
For their own reasons of pelf.
So why should I be provided I try?
Perform that samaritan on myself?
"Master your mind" is the watchword.
He who does that cannot fail.
Make it your slave from cradle to grave
And you'll have the world by the tail.

Who's Who Today

SENATOR JAMES E. WATSON.
"Harding for President in 1924." Senator James E. Watson, Indiana, sounded the C. O. P. battle cry on the floor of the senate recently during an attack on the administration by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi.
Watson is an old guard Republican, tried and true, and a personal friend of the president. Therefore, his stand in the senate is believed to reflect the opinion of the powers that be within the C.
O. P. He declared the party could not but support Harding in 1924.
Watson has represented Indiana in the senate since 1916, when he was named to fill the unexpired term of Benjamin R. Shively. He departed for the seat at the close of that term. He was re-elected in November, 1920 over Thurgart.
He was chairman of the committee on resolution at the Republican national convention in 1920.
Watson was born in Winchester, Ind., in 1884.
He was educated in Winchester schools and De-Paul University and was admitted to the bar in 1887. He began the practice of law with his father, the late Enos L. Watson. In 1902 Watson moved to Rushville and a year later was elected to congress. In 1906 he was defeated for re-election in a newly formed district, but two years later returned and remained in congress until 1908.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Federal Government.
NO. 12.
Inquiries received by the Bureau of Internal Revenue indicate a mistaken impression in the minds of many taxpayers concerning deductions from gross income for personal expenses. Such deductions for living or family expenses, such as amounts expended for food, clothing, education of children, rent for a dwelling, hire of domestic servants and similar items for the upkeep of a home are expressly disallowed by the revenue act.
A storekeeper may not clothe himself and family with goods taken from the store and deduct the cost of the clothing as a business expense. A restaurant keeper or hotel proprietor should make an allowance for meals for himself and family.
The same rule applies to a physician who conducts a sanitarium. A shopkeeper who dwells over his place of business should deduct as a business expense the salary of the porter, the portion of the building used for business. A farmer may deduct as a business expense wages paid a farm hand, but not those of a domestic employed in his household.
A physician who maintains an office in a rented home may deduct the proportion of such rent properly chargeable to the portion used for professional purposes. If, however, he maintains an office elsewhere and incidentally receives patients in his home, he is not entitled to deduct any part of the rent for his residence as a business expense. If a physician owns the home in which he has his office no deduction for rent is allowed.
The same general rulings in regard to deductions for home and office expenses apply to other professional men.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
Feb. 10, 1883.—The two-story tenement house that has been in construction for some time and was nearly completed, was destroyed by fire last night. It was owned by David Jeffris, who lives at 100 N. Third St. The fire broke out in the basement and spread to the upper floors. The parliment to get to. The loss is estimated at $1,000, and the owner had not been insured by the owner, David Jeffris.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
Feb. 10, 1893.—The board of education, at its special meeting tonight will act on Supt. Cooley's proposition to have mid-year promotions. If the action is taken, the promotions will occur twice from today as the end of the semester. The biggest piece of blacksmithing in the city was done today when the big steel shaft at the upper cotton mill, broken last week, was welded.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Feb. 10, 1903.—One hundred members of the Madison Street O'Clock dinner club are guests of the Twilight club tonight. The topic was the negro problem. Many of the ice houses have already been filled, and harvest will end in a few days.—Bishop Fallows, Chicago, gave an address at the Berean church last night, one of the Peoples' Lecture Series.

TEN YEARS AGO
Feb. 10, 1913.—Janesville Cardinals defeated Chicago Cardinals in a hard-fought game at the rink Saturday night. The Cardinals, first pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical church, this city gave the anniversary address last night in the celebrations on the tenth anniversary of the church's dedication. The two lower ice houses have been filled and men are scraping the bay.

but to be spiritually minded is life

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
Noted Physician and Author SAVING THE TEETH
Restrictions of diet. The nursing mother should eat everything in the form of wholesome food and drink which are good for her ordinarily and never avoid any item of food merely because some gossiping pinches it may do this and that to the baby. The more varied the mother's diet, the more fresh fruits and vegetables and relishes and salads, the better for the baby's health and his teeth.
Infants cheated of their birthright by the unfitness of the mother, and condemned to worry along on some substitute, ought to receive a daily dose of the healthful food and drink peach juice or other fresh fruit or vegetable juice, a few teaspoonfuls, from the age of six weeks upwards.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Immunity to Diphtheria.
A friend speaks in letter of having had her children vaccinated against diphtheria, "making them immune for the next 10 years. Is this correct or possible? We should certainly like to have our children made immune to diphtheria if there is such a thing possible." (D. B.)
Answer.—Yes, in many cities children are being immunized against diphtheria. The child is first tested for the Schick test which measures the vaccination, but causes no harm. If it shows that the child is susceptible to diphtheria, a small amount of the vaccine is injected. This is repeated until the child is immune. The vaccine is a relative, not an absolute immunity, and probably confers sufficient immunity to keep the child safe throughout childhood. Every physician can supply the test and immunize children who are found susceptible to diphtheria.
Formula for Bad Cough.
Please publish your formula for a bad bronchial cough. I have had it for more than three years and seem to be getting worse. (G. R.) Answer.—Best formula I know, for such a case is consult your physician, pro re nata.
Wild Hairs.
Please tell me the cause and cure for wild hairs in the eyelids. (Mrs. B.) Answer.—This is a condition of the hairs or lashes are not "wild," and should not be pulled out. The real cause of this condition is infection of the edge of the lid that causes for treatment. Sometimes the lid becomes distorted as a result of burns or other injuries or of chronic inflammation of the lids, so that the margins curl in. Even surgery is not recommended for pulling out the lashes, but may require surgical relief.

Q. How can I estimate the number of tons of ice that can be cut on a pond? H. P. C.
A. It depends upon the thickness of the ice. When the ice is 8 inches thick, it will take 12.5 cubic feet to make a ton. This is 52.5 square feet of cutting space. If the ice is only 4 inches thick it will take 25 square feet to yield a ton of ice.
There will be 3 1/2 cakes.
Q. When was the pipe line for transporting oil first used? M. Y.

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1923.
All the signs for this day are encouraging to human activities. The Sun and Mercury are in benefic aspect.
It is a day under which, to carry on intensive operations in business or manufacturing.
All commercial projects should be pushed while this configuration prevails.
This should be a fortunate day for those who desire to obtain aid or sanction in any ambitious undertaking. Persons who wield power or control means are supposed to be particularly responsive under today's planetary government.
This should be a lucky direction of the stars for those who sign contracts or enter into business agreements.
Since harmony and success appear to be indicated.
Great fluctuations in the stock market may be expected this year, cereals being especially subject to variation. Speculation should be avoided.
Educational matters, especially wide-reaching reforms, will occupy attention throughout the year. Changes in university management are forecast.
Far reaching philanthropies will prosper in the coming months when foreign nations will require a better understanding of the United States toward world-relief.
Stimulation of every line of commercial activity is strongly indicated for 1923, but war may be the cause of certain profits.
Lawyers and the law are to enjoy a season of confidence owing to some sort of compromise or agreement.
The outlook for peace in Europe continues most discouraging and again treachery on the part of a foreign power is foretold.
Warfare is given repeatedly that the stars forecast an unusual number of promotion schemes and an increased interest in certain enterprises.
Persons whose third-rate it is have attention drawn from the day and the augury of a year of prosperity and general business or professional development.
Children born on this day should be taught calm and self-control. They may be inclined to pay too much attention to personal appearance and to be too deliberate in their actions, but should easily win success.

FEBRUARY COMPO.

SUBJECT CONTEST
The February composition contest closes February 23. The subject for sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils is: "How I Can Be as Loyal to My Country as Lincoln Was." Competitions are not to exceed 150 words. Pupils of third, fourth and fifth grades are asked to tell in 100 words "Why I Want to Be Like Washington." Not more than two compositions are to be submitted by pupils of any one grade in the same school, but each grade may enter two compositions if desired. A game book will be given as the prize for the best composition on each topic. The age and grade of the contestants will be taken into consideration in grading the compositions. Send compositions to Good Times club editor.

ON MUSIC MEMORY LIST
Spring Song—This is one of the best known of the short instrumental pieces composed by Felix Mendelssohn, born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1805. He is known as one of the happiest characters among composers, because unlike most others he was never in want and never had to battle with the world for recognition. His father was a wealthy banker able to give his talented son every advantage in the way of training. He received his first music lessons from his mother, who was a talented musician. The Mendelssohns had a family orchestra, which gave musicals on Sunday afternoons with Felix as leader. He composed many religious works which reflect the calm even faith of his Lutheran religion. He died at the age of 38.

Spring Song is a dramatization of a mood rather than a definite program of occurrences, a poetic thought expressed through the medium of tone. One can feel the very spirit of springtime when listening to the strains of this song without words. This composition, played by Victor Sorlin on the violinello, is on the reverse side of the record containing "Melody."

GOOD HEALTH HONOR ROLL
Miss Anna Luetcher, Rock county nurse, made physical examinations in six rural schools during the week ending February 3. Those who were found to have normal weight and no physical defects are reported on the Good Health honor roll as follows: Dist. 4, Beloit—Number examined, 23. Honor roll: Robert Christman, 8; Virginia Young, 7; Arlene Van Namal, 6; Loris Van Namal, 5; Marie Kling, 3.

Jt. Dist. 1, Beloit—Number examined, 14; honor roll: Ellen Van Alstyne, 13; Pearl Ellis, 12.
Dist. 2, La Prairie—Number examined, 14; honor roll: Alfred W. Mendel, 8; Gladys Scott, 9; Donald Cronin, 6.
Dist. 2, Harmony—Number examined, 31; honor roll: Frank Splinter, 15; Arthur May, 10; Elizabeth Richards, 5; Adolph Hrobig, 4; Borgman, 3; Mark Campbell, 13; Alfred Wobig, 9.
Dist. 6, Harmony—Number examined, 11; honor roll: Mary McBrade, 11; James McBride, 8; Mary Clarke, 15.

THE RURAL TEACHER

The Community Editor visited within the past week two rural school buildings that afford exceptionally good facilities for social center activities, but unfortunately neither district has an active community club to promote this work. In both community clubs were organized last year and in each instance the teacher served as president, and gave such service as she could to carry on the work. Thus far this school year these teachers have been kept so busy with the regular school work and activities that they have scarcely related to the school that neither has found time to take up the promotion of the community club activities. It is natural for the people of school districts to look to the teacher for leadership, but too often instead of calling upon the teacher only for the service which she may be especially fitted to render, the whole responsibility is shifted onto her shoulders until presently she is doing a lot of things that other people could do as well, and in some instances, better.

last minute that I had better go easy, for Mr. Coue is only practicing what I have all along unwittingly been practicing. And, furthermore, this self-same auto, which is the smiling French druggist is so thoroughly popularizing, is none other than the mental therapy which every good doctor preaches and practices every day.

Points Out One Preach

And yet I am in duty bound to point out to the public the harm there may be in the Coue system for many who will eagerly take it up. If an individual in the earlier stage of one of the insidiously developing diseases such as tuberculosis, diabetes, or cancer, undertakes to jolly himself under Couelism that he is getting better and better day by day, he may thereby sacrifice his only chance for recovery or greatly shorten his prospect of long life, because that kind of blind optimism only so well known to Mr. Coue, it does—namely, makes the individual ignore the evidences of impaired health, evidences which, in such insidious conditions, are only too easily ignored and which, if not checked, gains a firm foothold and the victim is forced to seek medical cure.

Coue is a druggist, not a doctor. He is even more frank than many a one-hoss American druggist, too, for he frankly admits he knows nothing about medical matters and is quite incapable of making a diagnosis of the physical condition of an ignorant or prospective patron and, therefore, incompetent to determine whether the individual seeking treatment is in the early stage of any organic disease in the incipient stage of the stage when such a disease as cancer or tuberculosis is still curable by medical means, or in the stage when most serious diseases are most amenable to intelligent care. To be sure, a hopeful spirit and a sincere determination and expectation to get better and better day by day is an asset of the greatest value to every sufferer, be his disease trifling, imaginary, functional organic or even incurable. But it is right to be humanely aroused in the minds of scores and scores of such sufferers false hopes of improvement or cure through this self-jollying process in order to reach and restore to health the occasional victim of an imaginary or hysterical condition?

Good Medicine for Hysteria

There are many sufferers with hysteria than the public knows. Hysteria is not hysteria, nor is it an affection of females exclusively. Some of the most pronounced types of hysteria occur among men. Persons with hysteria are usually not at all of the "nervous" type or temperament. Hysteria is a state in which an idea controls the mind and body—autosuggestion, done enough, controls the mind and body. It is in the category of organic afflictions and the mimicry is so good that it sometimes fools even the experienced physician for a while. Mr. Coue's medicine is the very thing for hysteria. I can imagine nothing better for such disease than autosuggestion, unless it be Christian Science.

Long before this latest style of therapeutic suggestion from Nancy came to notice, doctors everywhere were using autosuggestion in routine practice, and often with results as effective as anything this French druggist has elicited in America. The blind made to see, the dumb restored to voice, the lame made to walk, the paralyzed restored—all instantaneously without subsequent relapse, and through nothing else than autosuggestion. But remember, in every instance, the idea of the mimicry effected by tracing the sufferer's mind of the controlling idea. And remember, too, that true hysteria is involuntary and as such a challenge to the physician. Barely do these work-a-day cases get into the papers. If we doctors were not so bashful about publicity, if we knew precisely what I mean, well, I think we could make a good practicing druggist of this man Coue again.

"Psycho Sprain"

Behind the milling mob of people with physical hysteria is a greater number with just mental hysteria. The latter is an idea that controls the mind, but no particular bodily abnormality to manifest. An abnormal idea, they are not insane, not crazy, but they have a psycho sprain or the mind is out of joint. They are pessimists, self-conscious, despondent, gloomy, discouraged, have an obsession of inferiority of inferiority to carry on and play the great game of life in a sporting way, they are suspicious, doleful, frangible, hard-to-get-along and hard-to-get-on. If they can take it up seriously Mr. Coue's autosuggestion will do a barrel of good.

sin's educational system at the same time that a unity of policy is established under a single board. The present institution of boards tend to an antagonism of purpose and a chaos of policy that is hampering full realization of the educational opportunities of Wisconsin's school system, those backing the bill claim.

Among the leaders who have united to push the project are Speaker Dull, Assemblyman D. J. Summer, George Smith, of Appleton, and W. A. Fresholtz, Wausau. Judge Charles D. Rosa, of the tax commission is also taking an active part in its support.

These men, meeting with other members, agreed that instead of creating a new board under terms of their bill, they would do away with the separate boards and place their duties under the state board of education.

Teacher training activities of the superintendent of public instruction would be transferred to the new board, but the administration of state vocational schools, would be left with the state board of vocational education.

The new directing board would have a changed membership, with representation of labor, farmers and business men. It would be appointed by the governor, with terms for six years.

Previous attempts to change the administration of the state school system have failed. Each time bitter battles have developed before the legislature, but always the boards, through their influence, have held their ground.

This year's attempt is being carefully organized and planned, Mr. Dahl said. Factional differences are being dropped.

HARDING TO ABIDE BY PARTY DECISION ON RENOMINATION

about himself. All he is willing to abide by any decision the party may make in 1924. There are positive disadvantages to any explicit statement on the subject at this juncture. First of all, he wants to say that he did not care for a renomination. It would simply stimulate all the various persons who want the nomination to begin active campaigns.

It is a known fact that parties make greatest headway when they are harmonious rather than divided into groups and blocs.

If, on the other hand, President Harding were to say flatly that he is a candidate for renomination, it would be like giving the opening gun in the presidential campaign itself.

The efforts of political groups and organizations of various kinds to influence his course on pending matters would be redoubled. Progress to get friends appointed to public office would be exerted in the list of what delegations could be mustered for the first ballot of the national convention as well as what votes could be gathered for the final fight in the autumn after the nominations have been made.

The Patronage Job.

Mr. Harding knows what it is to deal with patronage. It is the most troublesome and perplexing phase of presidential work. To announce himself as a candidate at this stage of the game would impart to the next twelve months a physical strain which could not but diminish the energy of a man who has the responsibility of the presidency.

The president is anxious to avoid discussion of the renomination question. He did not inspire the recent speech of Senator James Watson of Indiana, republican, but the latter made his own prediction of what the republican party would do when he said Mr. Harding would surely be renominated. There has been talk at Capitol Hill that Mr. Harding was an aspirant for republican nomination in 1924. All this has been on the theory that Mr. Harding was tired and would voluntarily withdraw. Senator Watson did not go to the White house. His speech is his own deduction of what he has heard and it amounts to a disavowal of any candidacy of his own. It will be recalled that Herbert Hoover took occasion recently to announce his belief that Mr. Harding would be renominated. He too, had been mentioned as a candidate in the event that Mr. Harding withdrew.

Personal Conference.

The fact he heard in 1921 is that Mr. Harding has no intention of giving up the presidency for personal convenience, as has been indicated from time to time by some one who erroneously interpreted his candid remarks about the weighty responsibilities of a president in this reconstruction period. Mr. Harding will accept the nomination if his party can win. That's all there is to it. And with that fact definitely implanted in the minds of republicans, the ones who seek the nomination will not be running as history has proved that in most cases the man in the White House is renominated by his party.

ELKHORN

County Seat News.
MRS. GRANT HARRINGTON,
Teleph. No. 95.

Elkhorn — Agricultural Agent L. J. Merriam will give an illustrated lecture before the Elkhorn Creek Brotherhood next Tuesday evening. Seventy six players from Darien, Delavan and Elkhorn held a meeting in Columbus Hall, Thursday night. Elkhorn won and continues in the lead by a wide margin. Support was given by the players. The next meeting will be in Darien but the date has not been determined. The second county fair institute will be held in Fairfield, Feb. 15-16. It is hoped that a one-day session can be arranged for Honey Creek for some later date. Webster Smith is experimenting with the feeding of hogs. He recently bought 125 hogs, averaging 125 pounds and in 24 days they have increased to 154 pounds or an average of better than 1 1/2 pounds per day. In 1818 an effort was made to take the east tier of towns in Walworth county—Bloomfield, Hudson (now Lyons), Spring Prairie, and East Troy—and unite them with two tiers of towns in Racine county and form a new division with Burlington as the county seat. The people of Walworth county were very much exercised over the movement and the county board petitioned "The Honorable, the Council and House of Representatives of the Territory of Wisconsin," as follows: "We feel ourselves called upon, in a sense of duty to ourselves, to our constituents and to public justice to earnestly and strenuously remonstrate against the policy of this movement, believing that the division of our county would be in opposition to a very large portion of the inhabitants of the same, opposed to good policy and to principles of a sound and salutary legislation." Walworth won out in the contest and the county continued as at present, four square. The Kaktars will meet with Mrs. Wallace O'Brien next Monday night. The Cornfield Avenue club meets with Mr. and Mrs. George Harrington, Saturday night. A debate is on between the men and women: "Resolved, That the men of the Cornfield Avenue Club do more work than the women." Late refreshments will be served.

The Calfskin Trunk

Being the Unsolved Mystery of Edwin MacFarland as told by Manuscripts found after the Hyatt House fire in Janesville; to which is added a few incidents by Peter B. Western, late of the C. S. A. of Missouri.

Written for the Janesville Gazette and copyrighted by the Gazette Printing Company, 1922. All rights reserved.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

When the Hyatt house burned in 1867, a calfskin trunk was found. It became the property of a drayman and eventually into the possession of Peter B. Western, who at one time was a clerk at the Hyatt House, but before the fire, the trunk, joined the Confederates. From a manuscript in the trunk, the story of the trunk is told. Two men, strangely alike, stopped at the Hyatt House in 1861. They occupied rooms 32 and 34. One was registered as MacFarland and the other as Watson. In the morning the dead body of the supposed Watson was found in room 34. MacFarland had left. Later, the trunk was found at the Hyatt House. It was also called Dick Littleton, who was a union scout as well as MacFarland who was a Confederate spy. But the man who showed up was the same one who had occupied room 34 at the Hyatt house. He was concerned about the disappearance of Gertrude Joplin who had been kidnapped by Jayhawkers.

MacFarland reads in a St. Louis paper the following morning that the Joplin house has been burned and Joplin himself has been hanged. He seeks Lieut. Robert Buchanan, an old boyhood friend, and warns him against Redmond. Robert confesses his love for Gertrude Joplin and is under the impression the man he is talking with is Richard Littleton and is not undelivered. MacFarland prepares to leave when he finds the house where he is staying is surrounded by Union troops.

ARMENIAN TELLS OF TURK HORRORS

Native Woman Makes Touching Plea for Aid of 2,000,000 Refugees.

Miss Maria Markarian, a native Armenian, who has been lecturing in schools in Janesville this week on behalf of her native people, is a woman of unusual courage and determination. She has taken much to heart the seriousness of the situation in countries inhabited by Armenian people. It is because of the enthusiasm she has in her work, and the vision she has of the good that every talk will do for some starving, cold child, that Miss Markarian is able to continue her work and to travel from school to school, from city to city. It will be only for physical reasons that Miss Markarian will ever stop.

It was to do this work only for a few weeks, Miss Markarian said when interviewed at the high school Thursday, "but I have been asked to continue and will do so for maybe a week, maybe two months—I don't know."

Miss Markarian knows her English perfectly—she received an American education in Massachusetts—but she is unable to understand her when she is talking from the platform. In a private conversation, however, she is easily understood and her enthusiasm is contagious and well transmitted.

Worked in kitchen at orphanage. During the war Miss Markarian was in Constantinople, where she had been for some years after her American education and had been employed in a kitchen at the orphanage. She was there after the war, when the results of the terrible massacres against the Armenians had begun to be felt, she entered the orphanage, and for a year she worked as a kitchen maid.

WORKERS GET MORE THAN STOCKHOLDERS

Distribution to 12,000 employees of Endicott-Johnson Corporation from 1922 earnings, under the profit-sharing plan, will involve $2,566,800, or $214.44 for each employee. This is the largest distribution in the history of the company, since the reorganization of the present company, in 1919. It compares with $1,966,087, or $175 an employee in 1921; $2,048,488, or $185.16 in 1920; and $2,506,286, or $232.00, in 1919.

The following gives net, after taxes and profit-sharing, earnings per common share, cash dividends on the common and amount of profit-sharing in cash distributed to each employee since reorganization:

	Net	Profit	Dividend
1922	$5,517,520	$137.77	$214.44
1921	$4,517,520	$137.77	$175.00
1920	$4,517,520	$137.77	$185.16
1919	$4,517,520	$137.77	$232.00

Shareholders have been paid on the basis of $26,000 common shares in 1919, $27,561 in 1920, and $27,138 in 1921 and 1922.

Under this profit-sharing plan, after all deductions for taxes and other charges, preferred dividend payments, and 10 per cent, or $6, a share, provided for the common stock, half the remaining surplus is divided equally among the employees. The other half may be added to surplus or distributed to common stockholders.

In four years of the present company's existence distributions to employees have totaled $1,025,876, compared with $1,025,876 in the same period of $1,025,876.

In 1920 the company was placed on a regular $1.25 dividend basis, which has since been maintained. A cash distribution of $2 extra and a distribution of 10 per cent in common stock, or $20, was made in 1920.

A common stock distribution of $20 per share, or $20,000,000, has been declared, payable Feb. 15.

PRICES OF STOCKS MOVE TO NEW HIGH GROUND THIS WEEK

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York—Breaking away from the narrow trading range within which they have been fluctuating for two months, prices of stocks moved to new high ground for the year this week in a sustained buying movement, which was stimulated by greater activity on the part of speculative pools and resumption of public participation on a large scale. Since this week averaged more than one million shares daily.

Foreign news developments which had been having a restraining influence on business were largely ignored, the market taking its cue from another series of constructive trade developments, which included extra dividend disbursements, announcements of higher prices for a number of commodities and a more optimistic feeling on the part of business men and financiers as to the immediate future of domestic business.

Trading in steel shares which became lethargic on publication of the last quarterly report of the United States Steel corporation showing that the dividends had not been paid for the first time since 1912, was revived by the 1922 report of the Republic Steel and Iron company showing a net profit of $1,810,000 against a deficit of $5,665,242 in 1921, and January iron production reached the highest level since October, 1920.

Railroad shares were bought heavily on official reports of a continuance of record car loadings, which, it is believed, will be reflected in the next monthly earnings statements, and on the increase in the New Orleans and Mexico dividend.

Higher prices for raw and refined sugar found reflection in the increased activity at higher prices in those shares. The Chamber of Commerce expects that the house building problem will partially be solved by the second mortgage company which will soon be in operation here.

Fuel prices for oil and gasoline advanced and higher dividend disbursements by the Standard Oil company of Indiana and the Imperial Oil company.

PAPER INDUSTRY SHOWS UP WELL IN SECURITY LIST

During the last three years, practically every Wisconsin investor has taken advantage of obligations offered by Wisconsin paper companies. Recent figures issued by the American Paper and Pulp Association, New York, indicate that the paper industry in 1922 was unusually prosperous. In every major branch of the industry, the first seven months of 1922 showed a larger output than for all of 1921. Furthermore, the Association says that the prospective demand is increasing.

Newsprint mills are running to the limit of their capacity. The fine paper mills, including writing, cover, tissue and general book production can be expected to follow the leadership of two-thirds of the entire paper industry.

Perhaps few Wisconsin residents realize that they live in the state which ranks fourth in paper production in the United States. During 1922, over 800,000 tons of paper and over 1,000,000 cords of pulpwood were used in Wisconsin.

Local reality men look for an increased activity even before spring is here. While many families are buying in the city so far has been about fifty per cent. The Chamber of Commerce expects that the house building problem will partially be solved by the second mortgage company which will soon be in operation here.

Chief Lucy Tayiah Ends.

For the second time in history a woman has been made chief of an Indian tribe. The Kay Indians of Oklahoma after having given their women the vote have now elevated a woman to the highest office of the tribe, that of elective chief. She is Chief Lucy Ends, whose father was chief until 1908, and since that time the tribe has been without a chief.

Mrs. Juliet Clements.

"Better a plain resident of Chicago than an Italian countess," says Mrs. Juliet Clements, Mrs. Clements and her husband, Chicago steamship agent, are now in Italy settling their claims to the estate and title left them at the death of Clements' brother. Mrs. Clements, a saleslady, and her husband will return to their regular vocations as soon as possible.

Miss Mildred Churchwell.

Miss Mildred Churchwell of Cordale, Ga., considered one of the prettiest girls in the south, has been chosen as the prettiest girl at Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga. The institution is the oldest woman's college in the U. S.

Ada Gladys Powell and James Dale.

Charges of Miss Ada Gladys Powell, pretty English girl, that James Dale, English actor now playing in New York, paid her passage, have led Ellis Island officers to "get the hook" for Dale in an effort to deport him as an undesirable alien. Miss Powell was denied admission to the United States on her arrival at Ellis Island.

"Disproportion of Wealth." Is it bar to marital happiness? "No," says Catherine Lillauer, and her plebeian fiance echoes "No-o-o!" "Yes," growls Papa Lillauer, wealthy. Washington man, and straightaway he asks Paris court to prevent marriage of his daughter to her auto dealer sweetheart. Lower court says "No." Papa says "We'll see," and awaits from decision.

Upper photo shows Howard Carter, U. S. explorer, and Mr. Cellender of excavating staff, helping carry jeweled throne of Tutankhamen from tomb. Below, the wheels of his chariot being carried out.

Each day new priceless treasures are being brought from the tomb of King Tutankhamen, ancient ruler of Egypt, by Howard Carter, U. S. explorer, and his staff which have opened the tomb sealed 3,000 years ago. The king's throne alone is worth a vast sum. It is inlaid with costly jewels and trimmed with huge pieces of gold. His chariot was found. The wheels had been dismantled when placed beside his body and are in excellent state of preservation.

U. S. S. Maryland, photographed from Brooklyn bridge, en route to sea.

The battleship Maryland, pride of the U. S. navy and one of the most powerful fighting units in the world, is on her way to join the fleet maneuvers off Balboa, Isthmus of Panama, which will begin Feb. 15. The Maryland will be the directing unit of the fleet at the Pacific entrance of the canal, flying the flag of Admiral Hilary P. Jones.

PIE THROWERS ARE PIE FOR DAN CUPID: HAROLD LLOYD'S ENGAGED TO MARRY

Mrs. Paul Beard, fire lookout at Harney Peak, South Dakota, is one of the few women workers in the federal forestry service. She keeps house in a "glass house" on the peak from early spring to late fall, when she takes up her studies at Ames, Ia. The tiny glass house in which she lives gives her a view over four states. It is lashed to the rock with heavy steel cables. Entrance is by a twenty-foot ladder.

Miss Mildred Davis and Harold Lloyd.

The street frock takes a new importance in spring when the top coat is often laid aside. This simple slim line model is made of a heavy dark crepe which makes it look like a cloth frock. A Russian note is added in the bright colored embroidery of the sleeves and the little pockets on the blouse and skirt.

Six women of more or less varying degrees of beauty in the limelight of the day's news, due to the strange quirk of fate. Inez Johnson, in twenty-eight years has married three times in search of happiness and without going through the divorce formally, according to San Francisco police. They call her the "bigamy maid." Mrs. Fay L. Gingold has just asked San Francisco court to annul her marriage to Herman, who is now residing more or less permanently in San Quentin prison, because she says he supported her on bad checks. Thomas Brodie, husband of Annette, says she followed the lead of her famous namesake, Steve, and took too many chances with one Claude Powell, former Chicago alderman. Brodie asks a divorce. Mrs. Rosalind Pomeroy-

Bernard is one of the central figures in a divorce and remarriage snarl. Mrs. Doro. Anderson, born in Russia, came to America in search of a husband and happiness. She found both. Federal agents say Florence May Dibble had eleven names and at least six husbands in the army and navy from whom she has been drawing regular monthly allotments.

Removing King Tutankhamen's couch from his tomb in the Egyptian Valley of Kings.

King Tut's life might have been one of ease, "soft," as the expression now is, but that was only during his waking hours.

His couch, just removed from his tomb near Thebes, Egypt, was not so soft. In fact it was very hard, according to all appearances. With it was his bow and arrows. King Tut may have had a feather tick also, but so far it hasn't been discovered.

Saving Gas By Correct Spark Timing

The Utmost Practicable Advance Secures The Highest Fuel Efficiency

THERE IS LITTLE LIKELIHOOD of a car's being run habitually with an overadvanced spark, as the engine gives notice of the fact by knocking persistently, but there is greater probability that late ignition may be tolerated for long periods, because the signs of it are not so distinct. When ignition comes too late, power is diminished and fuel wasted because the piston is not acted upon by the charge at its instant of greatest pressure and is acted upon for less than the normal proportion of the working stroke. It is always possible that an engine's ignition may have been timed too late by whoever set the ignition cam and this defect may not be realized at once, by the average operator, as the resulting overheating, low power and high gasoline consumption may be laid to other causes. It also sometimes happens that the ignition cam slips on its shaft or, if a chain-drive is used, that the chain becomes very slack, both of which occurrences may produce over-late ignition. When an engine is badly carbonized, has too high compression for the fuel it is using or has looseness in its moving parts, it is very likely to knock, especially when heavily loaded, and some of this knocking can usually be stopped or at least reduced by retarding the ignition. Under these circumstances the operator is likely to set the spark lever in a very late position and leave it there, where the engine runs most quietly, not realizing that this entails a large waste of fuel. Low fuel economy, in ill conditioned engines, is very often caused by the impracticability of running with the spark properly advanced. To secure maximum fuel economy the utmost advance should be used that can be maintained without making the engine knock or click, the setting being made when the cylinders are free from carbon, the mixture properly adjusted and mechanical parts in good adjustment. If later the engine begins to knock, something other than the ignition setting is presumably the cause.

ENGINE WASTES OIL

J. D. G. writes: The engine of my car smokes very badly and uses nearly a gallon of oil in running the car 100 miles. Is piston-rings are all right, the engine has good compression and the oil makes 21 miles per gallon of gasoline. What causes this waste of oil?

Answer: This make of engine usually gives no trouble from oil pumping and, considering your good compression and more than average fuel economy, it seems as if the ring fit must be good and not blamable for this excessive oil consumption. It is possible that your trouble is that the cylinder walls receive an abnormal amount of oil-splash—more than the rings can wipe down—and this may be because the oil level, for some reason, runs much higher than it should, high enough, perhaps, that the splash-pan is flooded whether the pump is running or not. Your gauge may possibly be out of order and registering a falsely low level. No more than six quarts should be in the system at once and, if you find this amount exceeded, it may account for your trouble. Are you sure there is no oil leak at the oil-pan gasket, around the crank-shaft bearing or elsewhere?

SPARK INTENSIFIERS ONCE MORE

T. H. asks: Will the use of spark intensifying devices, such as the ——— transformers, on the engine of my Ford truck, result in its giving more power and consuming less gasoline?

Answer: We presume that this device is one of those which cause the sparking current to pass through a small spark gap, in series with the one between the points of the plug. This being the case, we cannot conscientiously encourage you in the belief that it would accomplish the beneficial results above referred to. Intensifiers of this type will often cause fouled plugs to spark effectively, when without them they would fail to spark, through short-circuiting and, in case an engine is missing explosions, on account of dirty plugs, intensifiers may be expected to increase power and decrease fuel consumption, insofar as they prevent missing. In the case of an engine that is igniting regularly, no data has ever come to our knowledge to the effect that the use of intensifiers increases the output or reduces fuel consumption.
